

Room in unique design loft

Private room in loft in Gamle Oslo, Norway

The apartment is a unique project in the Oslo context, with no insight from neighbours, a 35 m² private glassed balcony, and sun from all directions. It consists of an open space of 100 m² holding the kitchen and areas for eating, lounging or working. The way the sun plows through the apartment, bringing the sunsets as a panorama across the whole apartment is a spectacle on its own. It is furnished with various design icons, that interacts with the design elements of oak through the space.

The space

The complete apartment is 132 m², and consists of 3 bedrooms, an office (private), 2 bathrooms and a 60 m² space with opened ceilings, displaying the loft beams and a ceiling height of 4,15 meter. The sensation of space in the apartment is very special, because of the large opened structure, and the 35m² glassed balcony outside, in the summer creating an interaction between inside and outside that is very special.

Guest access

I have three bedrooms that I rent out, and the guests then also of course have access to the large common space and balcony. I am sometimes in the studioroom myself (not pictured here).

Other things to note

Please give a proper introduction about yourself when putting in a request, as it is a shared space. I appreciate info about age, profession, purpose of trip, daily routines, hobbies or a little that tells something about who you are, just enough info so that I can consider if we would fit living here together.
