

HYBRID CIRCLE U.

FOR INCLUSION, FLEXIBILITY &
INTERNATIONALIZATION

By Sarah Schmid
&
Paola Soto Batista

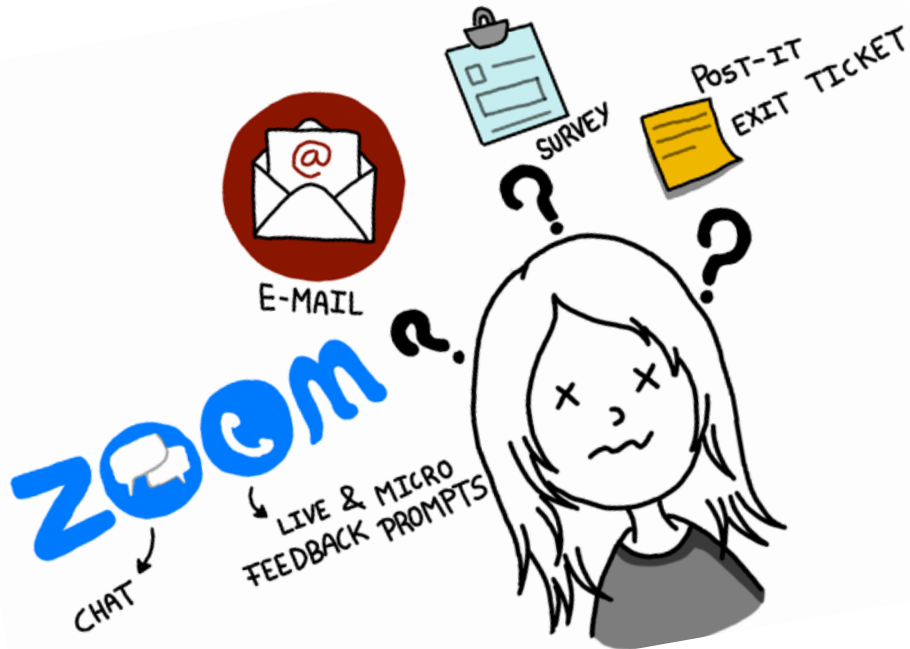

Circle U.
Seed Funding
Scheme 2024

Co-funded by the European Union

What people think Hybrid teaching is What is hybrid teaching?

Hybrid Teaching is a pedagogical approach to teaching, with synchronous parallel participation of online and in-person students

Successful hybrid teaching across Circle U. partner universities

Reasons for Implementing Hybrid Teaching

Teacher Education

Work and Part-time Studies

Diversity in Student Background & Experience

Methods of Implementing Hybrid Teaching

Online Resources On Canvas

Asynchronous Lectures

Flexibility in Attendance Online and On-Site

universität wien

Goals of Implementing Hybrid Teaching

Equity and Participation for All

Respecting Diversity

Removing barriers to learning

Strategies for Implementing Hybrid Teaching

Universal Design for Learning

Blended learning Models

Assistive technologies and standards

Examples by: Kristin Vasbø and Greta Gudmundsdottir

Examples by: Thomas Schrei

Successful hybrid teaching across Circle U. partner universities

Skill Development

Students challenged to enhance cross-cultural communication skills

Student Satisfaction

Enabled active participation and transnational team-work

Ability to move from classroom to remote participation assisted with logistical difficulties

Real World Relevance

Collaboration with international peers and client
community provided a service element

Thank you to the Circle U universities for sharing their hybrid teaching resources!!

Check out the additional resources each university offers for more information:

Kings College
London

University of Vienna

University of Oslo

Guidelines on Hybrid
Teaching /Learning

