Playwright Exercises

We will use https://automationexercise.com/ to practice Playwright, it is a mock e-commerce website which offers several functionalities such as:

- Register new user
- Account login
- Browse products
- Select products and quantities
- Add products to cart
- Add payment method
- Checkout process

You are to create at least three test cases for the system. One of them should be end-to-end, meaning it should cover the start-to-end process simulating a user purchasing an item and receiving order confirmation. For the two other test cases, it is up to you to decide. The website includes some pre-made test cases that you may follow. However, we strongly recommend that you create your own test cases from scratch using the knowledge that you have acquired throughout the Software Testing course so far. Make sure to use the Playwright cheat sheet' file included in the assignment, as it contains some useful commands for you to learn throughout this exercise. Additionally, you should check the official Playwright documentation and official JavaScript Documentation to help you on the way.
