

Identify some main points not the whole article.

Arrange for a group meeting where you discuss and agree upon the focus of your resume.

This resume should be shared with the whole seminar. You can do this by sending it to eliseh@ifi.uio.no latest at Tuesdays and she will link it up at the course website.

Main contribution: Observation as method

How is the main contribution discussed?

- Different types of observations?
- Different ways to make notes while observing?
- Different ways of writing up the notes?
- Different ways of analyzing observations?
- Different ways of combining observations with other kinds of data collection methods?
- Researcher's role?

Relate the contributions and discussions to other parts of the curriculum

- Do other authors consider the same issues the same way?
- What are the nuances?
- What are the implications of these differences for your work as a researcher?

In what ways do you find the contributions relevant for your own research work and the cases you are engaged with?
