

PhD course: A differentiated Europe and its implications

Oslo/Online, 21-24 June 2022

Schedule

Tu. 21. June
09.00-09.30	Course introduction - John Erik Fossum and Jarle Trondal
Section I: Conceptualizing and theorizing differentiation
09.30-11.00	John Erik Fossum: What are the key features of differentiation?
11.00-11.30	Break
11.30-13.00	John Erik Fossum: What is the relationship between differentiation, dominance and democracy?
13.00-14.00	Lunch
Student Presentations
14.00-17:00	Student Presentations
Social Event
17:00-21:00	Visit to the Munch Museum and Dinner

We. 22. June
Section II: EU and differentiation
09.00-10.30	Dirk Leuffen: EU and differentiation: What are the distinctive features of EU differentiation?
10.30-11.00	Break
11.00-12.30	Sieglinde Gstöhl: Overview of EU relations with non-members
12.30-13.30	Lunch
Student Presentations
13.30-16:30	Student Presentations

Th. 23. June
09.00-10.30	Benjamin Leruth: EU and differentiation: Towards further integration or disintegration?
10.30-11.00	Break
Section III: Implications for Norway and the UK
11.00-12.30	John Erik Fossum: Brexit, EU external differentiation and normative challenges
12.30-13.30	Lunch
Student Presentations
13.30-16:30	Student Presentations

Fr. 24. June
09.00-10.30	Jarle Trondal: EU and differentiation: The administrative dimension
10.30-11.00	Break
Section IV: The corona pandemic and EU differentiation
11.00-12.30	Vivien Schmidt: COVID 19 and its possible implications for EU differentiation
Course assignments
12.30-13.30	Course assignments